Excessive drinking on college campuses has many negative consequences:

- Almost ALL students experience the effects of college drinking - whether they drink or not.
- Students who abuse alcohol are more likely to:
  - Have lower GPAs
  - Suffer or cause physical harm
  - Abuse other substances
  - Practice unsafe sex
  - Drive while intoxicated
- Each year approximately 1,825 college students die from alcohol related causes

What is it?
Challenging College Alcohol Abuse (CCAA) is a social norms and environmental management program aimed at reducing high-risk behaviors and related negative consequences among college students. CCAA uses a campus-based media campaign and other strategies to address misperceptions about alcohol and make the campus environment less conducive to drinking.

Why is it important?
Research has shown that over 80% of college students drink alcohol and more than half of them report binge drinking within the previous two weeks. Excessive drinking affects college students, their families, and the entire college community. Hundreds of thousands of lives each year are affected by alcohol.

Who should be involved?
- Director of Student Life and Judicial Affairs
- Campus security
- Core group of invested instructors or other college personnel
- Extra-curricular groups or classes invested in the project
